Dear Insulfoam Solutions

I am writing to thank you and your staff for the excellent job and professionalism in the installation of the Sealection 500 foam insulation under our timber floors.

As the director of Healthy House, a company focused on the health and sustainability solutions for residential and commercial buildings, I have searched for many years for a suitable product to properly insulate timber floors on stumps. Your product has more than met my requirements for insulation (R2.4), application and longterm performance. We noticed an almost immediate and dramatic change in comfort within our home which is fully double-glazed and with well insulated ceilings and walls. Our floors, which are high off the ground, are now warm in winter and cool in summer, which adds significantly to the building's thermal performance.

Over the past 2 years we have renovated and extended our 100year old weatherboard cottage in Woodend Victoria. We have focused on design features and products which meet our stringent criteria for healthy and sustainable building design (see the Woodend Healthy House case study on our website – www.healthyhouse.com). One area that has always been a concern personally and professionally is how to properly insulate timber floors. As a Healthy Buildings consultant I have always had a problem with specifying techniques and products which would properly insulate timber floors-on-stumps. My experience has shown that any technique or product used to date, has been extremely difficult and time consuming to install and has either not been able to insulate all areas properly and/or deteriorated overtime (eg.moisture take-up in fibre insulation batts, small animals nesting in and damaging the material, etc). I now have an insulation product which I can confidently recommend to my clients for not only timber floors but walls and ceilings as well. Thank you again.

Regards
